

Stéphane Le Foll – biography

Born in Le Mans (France), He graduated with a M.A from « Le Maine University » and the Université de Nantes (France). He was elected once as a member of the European Parliament (2004-2012), twice as a member of the French Parliament (2012-2017). Elected as MP in the Department of Sarthe, he is presently a member of the Commission of sustainable development in French national Assembly. During President Hollande's presidency, he served as both Ministry of agriculture and spokesperson of the Government. During five years, as Ministry of agriculture, he succeeded in implementing public policies in favor of agroecology. He is at the origin of the "4 for 1000" Initiative recognized in the world as a prominent and leading initiative to promote agroecology. He is the author of a book "la première graine" (Ed. Calmann-Levy) in which he describes his passion for agriculture, his deep interest in agroecology and his work as French Ministry to fight climate change through the passing of his law on agriculture (2014).

Stéphane Le Foll – Biographie

Né au Mans, il est diplômé des Universités du Maine et de Nantes. Homme politique de premier plan, il a été successivement : Député Européen (2004-2012), Député de la Sarthe (2012- réélu en 2017) puis Ministre de l'agriculture et Porte-Parole du Gouvernement (2012-2017). Il est actuellement Député de la Sarthe et membre de la Commission du développement durable à l'Assemblée Nationale. En tant que ministre sous le quinquennat de François Hollande, il est à l'origine d'une loi d'avenir sur l'agriculture qui promeut notamment l'agroécologie. Il est également à l'origine de l'Initiative « 4 pour 1000 » dont il est aujourd'hui le Vice- Président. Il est l'auteur du livre « La première graine » (Ed. Calmann-Levy).